TOUGALOO ART Colony 2007

July 14 - 20, 2007

The Tougaloo Art Colony is a retreat for nationally acclaimed artists, emerging artists, art educators, art students, and interested adult learners, to engage in dialogue and to create works that help extend the multicultural dimensions of America's visual arts culture.

Begun in 1997, the Tougaloo Art Colony consists of seven days of studios led by guest artist instructors from a variety of media, geographic regions, and backgrounds. The daily studio workshops and the shared evening sessions provide a forum for artists to gain insights from instructors, to explain and talk about their own work, the work of other artists, and to share and compare techniques and art theories.

The close associations formed through a week of intensive study provide a network for ongoing relationships between artists and celebration through the creation of art works, the common denominator of the human spirit and its relationship to our contemporary world.

Application Information:

- Registration fee $ 25 non-refundable
- Tuition $350 (non-refundable after July 1)
- Independent Study $150
- Room & board (breakfast and lunch included, dinner on your own)
 - $375 Single occupancy
 - $275 Double occupancy

A WEEK-LONG INDULGENCE IN THE VISUAL ARTS
FOR ARTISTS, ART EDUCATORS, ART STUDENTS

HISTORIC TOUGALOO COLLEGE
JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI

JULY 14 - 20, 2007

Romance of the Landscape • Jerrie Glasper

Participants in this workshop will experience the exciting, versatile and astounding capabilities of acrylic or oil painting as Glasper shares his technique and romantic style reminiscent of the 19th century Hudson River School of Artists.

Enameling Visual Music • Napoleon Jones-Henderson

Gaining control of the technique and medium will have participants in this workshop dancing to the music that inspires Jones-Henderson creations. Experience the jewel-like firing that results from creative designs, textures and colors.

Fusing/ Quilting, Fabric Painting and Abstraction • Sonji Hunt

Hunt will offer to participants in this workshop a combination of fuse/ quilting and fabric painting. Students will be led through a process that enhances the understanding of abstraction, and they will create works that reflect their life interests and visual vocabulary.

Taming the Watercolor Giant • Mario Robinson

Robinson is back by popular demand! He brings to Colony 2007 his expert watercolor techniques in a manner that is sure to make even the novice feel that there is no need to fear the medium of watercolor.

Face, Grace and the Ceramic Vase • Kathleen Varnell

When does a vessel become a comfort zone? Participants will not only learn the answer to that question in this workshop, they will also create their own vessel sanctuaries under the expert guidance and demonstrations of Varnell.
