

CHURCH STREET

THE SUGAR HILL OF
JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI

Grace Sweet & Benjamin Bradley

The 1930s and 1940s saw unprecedented prosperity for the African Americans of Jackson's Church Street. From the first black millionaire in the United States to defenders of civil rights, nearly all of Jackson's black professionals lived on Church Street. It was one of the most popular places to see and be seen, whether that meant spotting Louis Armstrong strolling out of the Crystal Palace Club or Martin Luther King, Jr. organizing an NAACP meeting at his field office on nearby Farish Street.

Join authors and veterans of Church Street, Grace Sweet and Benjamin Bradley as they explore the astounding history and legacy of Church Street.

BOOK RELEASE CELEBRATION

CHURCH STREET
(THE SUGAR HILL OF JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI)

by

Grace Britton Sweet &
Benjamin Bradley

Tuesday, July 23, 2013
4:30 - 7:30 p.m.

Smith Robertson Museum and Cultural Center
528 Bloom Street
Jackson, Mississippi

RSVP-Phyllis Washington
601-965-8700